The Chicago Hardware Foundry Company,
209 West Randolph Street,
Chicago, Illinois.

Gentlemen:

CARDED

Mr. Gregory H. Rickhoff, American Trade Commissioner, Caixa Postal 570, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, is interested in receiving literature and price lists, shipping weights, etc., of American manufacturers of electric hand dryers. The E M F Yearbook lists you as being a manufacturer of this device.

If you are interested in developing your market in Brazil, I suggest that you send to him either direct or through this Division sufficient data to enable him to approach properly prospective agents. This service, of course, is done without any assumption of responsibility on the part of the Bureau.

Very truly yours,

H. E. Way,
Assistant Chief, Electrical Equipment Division.

Gentlemen: Re: No. 29.

We are pleased to have your letter of the 11th, advising that Mr. Eickoff of Rio de Janeiro is interested in securing information regarding electric hand driers.

We are writing Mr. Eickoff to the effect that we have recently established an agent in that City, which prevents us from entertaining propositions from others.

Thanking you for your interest and assuring you that we very much appreciate your co-operation, I am

Yours very truly,

T. P. Meehan

Dear Mr. Carmon:

Not Received in files Section

In accordance with your letter of October 9, 1928, requesting the comment of this office as to the merits of the electric drying machine, I submit herewith a report on this subject, dated February 11, prepared by our Mr. Mickey.

A test of the drying machines on a much larger scale than was possible in this office will be made within the near future in several schools of the District of Columbia. The machines to be used in this test will be improved to remedy an important defect discovered during the tests conducted in this office.

Very truly yours,

Acting Chief, Bureau of Efficiency.

Enclosure.

Inclosed are two pamphlets describing the Sani-Dri machine manufactured by the Chicago Hardware Foundry Company, North Chicago, Illinois, which we have received from our contact, together with information that a German manufacturer has brought out an electric hand and face drier similar to theirs, which was exhibited at the Leipzig Fair. Our client is very much interested in securing further details, as well as descriptive literature regarding this German machine, but they are unable to supply us with any information which might identify the product. It has occurred to us, however, that the desired information might be secured through the American Consul at Leipzig, and if advisable we suggest that you refer this request to the State Department for appropriate action.
